REPORT OF THE SCHOOL BOARD.

Hollis, N. H., January 31, 1919.

The schools have accomplished good work during the past year. Because of the epidemic in the autumn the village schools were closed for four weeks, so that we account for thirty-three weeks since January 31, 1918. The school year from September to June will contain thirty-six weeks as usual.

The unusual amount in the treasury is due to the enforced vacation in the fall and the fact that the new state law required us at the last district meeting to raise a sum sufficient to carry the schools through to August 31, 1919.

In the village the grammar and intermediate rooms are crowded, the grammar school having the sixth, seventh and eighth grades, with thirty-four pupils and the intermediate having the third, fourth and fifth grades with forty-two pupils. It is difficult for the teachers to get satisfactory results under these circumstances. To secure relief from these conditions and to obtain the best results these grades should be so divided that there would be two grades in each room. This would require another class-room and another teacher. The change could be achieved by building an addition on the north side of the high school building, making a larger classroom of the present lunch room, and having the lunch room in the northeast corner of the building. Or it could be done by building a new house for grades I and II and putting grades III and IV in the room now occupied by the primary.

The new educational bill now before the legislature may necessitate some changes in school work and expenses during the coming year.

We recommend raising $300.00 for school purposes.

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS.

To the School Board of Hollis:

I herewith submit my third annual report as superintendent of schools. The enrollment at present is a little less than last year, the decrease being in the Pine Hill school and the high school. The per cent of attendance for the school year 1917-1918 is noticeably lower than the preceding year, dropping from 94.6 to 91.05. Pine Hill is the worst offender, having a per cent of only 83.41. Sickness is responsible for some of this, of course, but pupils stay out of school many times when extra effort would enable them to attend. Some stay out to work. Perhaps this is necessary at times, but youth is the time to obtain an education in school and only the direst necessity should be allowed to deprive the child of his opportunity and right to obtain knowledge. Moreover our state law prescribes constant attendance at school for pupils between the ages of 8 and 14 (16 if the elementary course is not completed before that age) unless the child is physically or mentally unfit for school.

The work of the present school year has been hampered by the epidemic although not so seriously as in other towns. The four weeks that schools were closed will be made up by shortening the Christmas and spring vacations and extending the last term. Recurring attacks of disease cause absences in all rooms so that continuous progress is difficult.

Following the vote of the school district to adopt medical inspection, Dr. George S. Hazard was appointed medical inspector. Every child was examined last spring, a record made of his condition, and notices sent to parents if defects were found.

This fall a follow-up examination was made to see if the defects about which parents had been notified had been remedied. The following table gives the results of both examinations:

MEDICAL INSPECTION, 1918.

	No. Cases in Spring, 1918.	No. Cases Reported in Spring, 1918, Still Unremedied.	No. of New Cases Found Dec., 1918.	Total No. of Cases in Dec., 1918.	Per Cent of Cases Remedied Between the Two Inspec- tions.

Total number examined May, 1918.....				134
Total number examined Dec., 1918.....				140

As a whole, more than half the physical defects noted in May were not found in December. It is noticeable that teeth defects are the most numerous. Probably no other machinery is in as constant use with as little attention paid to necessary repairs as the human tooth. Malnutrition and anaemia are found in a surprisingly large number of pupils. As regards vaccination it is evident that the law has not been enforced. The inspection has been well worth while and ought to be continued.

The intermediate room (Miss Read's) is overcrowded for a room with three grades. It is impossible to give the personal attention to each child which is usually necessary.

Scarcely ever do all pupils in a class fully comprehend any given class exercise. Individual instruction and guidance must follow class teaching. The pupils in this room do not have as good advantages in this respect as the pupils in the ordinary rural school. The Pine Hill third grade, for example, has four pupils with about ten minute recitation periods. This means $2\frac{1}{2}$ minutes per pupil for any recitation period. Miss Read's third grade has 18 pupils with periods about 20 minutes in length. This allows approximately only one minute per pupil. Periods cannot be longer on account of the large number of classes to be accommodated. The same conditions hold true to almost the same extent in the grammar room. The remedy is to arrange for two grades only to a room. This means an extra teacher and an extra room. So the remedy is easier to prescribe than to apply. However, if the junior high school program for grades seven and eight and practical arts courses in the high school are ever adopted, the present building will have to be remodelled or enlarged. In my last annual report I described at some length the agricultural and domestic arts courses. If the town wishes to see these courses in the high school, I suggest that a committee be appointed to plan accommodations and report. In these days when all institutions and processes are being remodelled to serve more efficiently the practical needs of mankind, it is indefensible to maintain the old type of education to the exclusion of the practical arts courses, which fit future citizens to perform the common necessary duties which they will have to perform in order to exist. I have no quarrel with the classical type of education, in fact I admire it and maintain that it has produced most of our thinkers and leaders. But it is not suited for everybody; the bulk of the pupils are better served by the practical courses. In fact it would be better for every boy and girl if head training were supplemented by hand training.

If practical arts courses are to be introduced in the Hollis high school, there is no doubt that the local needs require agriculture and domestic arts. The high school proper will have probably about 30 pupils as it has had in the past few years. The Junior high school will bring the total up to 50 or 60. This is just the size of the Amherst high school. For both the junior and senior high schools four regular teachers would be necessary, with an extra teacher to serve part time in the shop. As I have pointed out above, there should be one more teacher than at present anyway, to reduce the number of grades per teacher to two. This would leave an addition of only one and one-half teachers, if I may so express it, to carry out the proposed plans. The endowment of the high school will easily take care of this extra expense. The cost of maintenance, aside from the extra salaries, is not large. The hearty support which the people of Hollis always give the schools will insure the success of any project which they vote to start.

In closing I wish to express my appreciation of the harmonious coöperation of the school board and teachers in the work of the school.

Respectfully submitted,

ALFRED W. SMITH,

Superintendent.
